LA Art Show Gears Up for 2023 Edition

We're delighted the LA Art Show will return to the LA Convention Center February 15 to 19, 2023 for our 28th edition! Promising to be even bigger, with a greater number of select exhibitors from Europe, Asia, North America and Latin America, the LA Art Show follows through on its tradition of presenting the most comprehensive international art fair on the west coast of the United States. For the third year, Kassandra Voyagis takes the lead as LA Art Show producer / director, with plans for an exciting agenda of events, performances and specially curated exhibitions, along with our signature curated program, DIVERSEartLA.

We look forward to hosting a lineup of leading galleries showing a wonderful selection of contemporary and modern art, as well as classical and other specialized areas that often command their own dedicated shows.

Stay tuned for updates...

Gallery Highlight: William Havu Gallery

Highly anticipated at the LA Art Show 2023 edition, we look forward to welcoming first-time exhibitor William Havu Gallery. Established in 1973 in Aspen, the gallery re-located to Denver in 1998. Through its exciting exhibition program, William Havu Gallery emphasizes national and international trends in realism and abstraction with a focus on notable regional mid-career and established artists.

For its debut exhibition at the LA Art Show, the gallery will present the work of California based ceramic artist Cheryl Ann Thomas, who creates intricate sculptures using the age-old coiling technique. When fired in the kiln, her tall cylinders of thin, coiled porcelain collapse and fold in on themselves. Chance and unpredictability dictate the process. Her intuitive, organic approach imitates processes in the natural world. “The fact that it’s built up coil by coil,” Thomas says, “that’s the way a lot of things in nature grow.”

The artist says she “invites the physics of failure during the firing.” Completed, the slumped over shapes suggest repositories along with a sense of abandonment.
